

Dear Grocer,

We want to thank you for serving our community so well over the years and tell you how much we appreciate every little nuanced service to us... from the way the shelves are stocked to the width of the aisles, from the huge variety of foods available to us and the rigorous quality control procedures utilized to keep us safe. The product quality is always excellent and plentiful... a testament to oversight and management. Each customer is encouraged to let you know how to improve that service, or if there's ever any special order to place and stock... please advise.

So consider the following request I'm asking for my community, who understands the economic reasons behind it.

Paper pulp is one of the largest industries on the planet and if we could use a better product that wouldn't harm the earth, was more quickly renewable, (4 months to harvest hemp which recycles 7-8 times vs 20-80 years with tree wood pulp that only recycles 2-3 times), then let's begin the process of change right here.

We would like to replace wood paper products with hemp paper products. We understand the price might be a little more because of the lack of hemp manufacturing plants in the U.S. at this time... but the 2020 Farm Bill allows no reason to delay.

Hemp paper could replace bags, towels, plates, napkins, and toilet paper. This one change alone, could advance the effort to save the planet, immensely. Consider all the products boxed in tree wood paper...

I'm imagine you, too, would want to be part of this movement. So if you would start the process here, by sending this request upstream, our whole neighborhood would catch on so much quicker.

There are various companies now serving bulk orders for hemp products and more on the way... You can bet on hemp manufacturing happening sooner than later because the US is in desperate need of a new source for product manufacturing. Hemp can make plastic, cars, planes, trains, fuel, water filtration, clothes, bedding, food, medicine, and so much more. Our country was built on the back of hemp and we used to produce over 25,000 products with it... that's right, 25,000... before 1937!
Start placing our orders now, please!

So we, who live in this neighborhood are telling you we want to help the planet heal, help restart our nation's wealth, teach people about the many advantages of cannabis, and move towards fresh ideas of manufacturing with this ancient original planetary grass.

Thank you for helping us achieve those goals. We'll look forward to seeing all the new hemp products you can find to present to us.

Sincerely,

The Neighbors in your purchasing area
